

Francisco Ramirez

Francisco Ramirez is an experienced coach with over 20 years of experience. From public sector clients to working with United Nations, Francisco has served as a leading expert in more than 15 countries and is known for designing dynamic, human-centered learning strategies that work for diverse populations.

He holds a Master of Public Health from Columbia University's Mailman School of Public Health where he was named a Rosenfield Scholar.

He has delivered more than 300 workshops, trainings, and/or executive coaching sessions with leaders in English Spanish, and Portuguese.

His area of focus includes: leadership; holding courageous conversations; speaking up; diversity, equity and inclusion; psychological safety; and the art of decision- making.

Francisco has been featured by media such as The New York Times, the Wall Street Journal, National Public Radio, MTV, and New York Magazine for his work in the field of education and training

